

Arabica

Known as one of the most popular and well known types of coffee bean, Arabica beans are the most commonly produced variety and are considered higher quality beans. In fact, over 60% of the coffee beans in the world that are produced are Arabica variety.

These beans are grown at high altitudes and need to be in an area that has a steady rainfall and plenty of shade.

Perhaps one of the reasons that this is a variety of coffee bean that is seen the world over is because the trees are easy to care for, they are reasonably small and they are easy to prune too. Although they are delicate and can be affected by their environment. Arabica is both full of flavour and aroma, which is why it's our offering for our coffee subscription UK plan!

- arabica is type of coffee bean it is very popular all over the world
- the beans are grown in higher altitude
- sweet sour bitter salty hot spicy
- it taste bitter rather than being sour
- It tends to be bitter than sour.

Robusta

The next variety of coffee bean is Robusta, which is the second most produced in the world.

robusta = robust

As the name hints, the Robusta bean is both hardy and is also immune to a variety of diseases too.

This type of coffee bean grows best in a hot climate with irregular rainfall and can grow at a number of altitudes too. Compared to Arabica beans, those that grow on the Robusta plant have double the amount of caffeine in them, meaning that they are an excellent choice for a real boost and offer a more harsh flavour.

The beans also have a smooth texture and it is often said that they even have a slight chocolate hint to them, which makes them ideal to have with milk and sugar (perhaps as an iced coffee).

- second most produced in world
- it taste strong so milk and sugar go well along with this bean
- look good together
-

Liberica

One of the hardest types of coffee bean to come by is the Liberica bean. They are larger than the other beans and is the only one in the world that is known to have an irregular shape.

Liberica beans are also unique in their aroma and some say that they are not only smoky, but they are fruity and floral too.

Excelsa

Although having recently been classified as a member of the Liberica family, the Excelsa bean is vastly different in taste when compared to the Liberica coffee bean.

So there you have it, a full run-through of the main types of coffee. You can check out our range of coffees, coffee gifts, coffee equipment and more in our online shop.

Mostly found in the South East of Asia, it accounts for only around 7% of the worlds coffee.

- it taste bitter rather than sour.
- I like to taste bitter rather than sour.
- I like to have beans that taste bitter rather than sour
- hot to ice
- 어떤걸 더 선호하나요?
- what do you like more hot to ice
- what do you prefer hot to ice
- I like both.

오랜만에 - it has been a while / It has been a long time

늦은 출근 - commute (출퇴근 / 통학) go late

빠른 출근 - go early

so I will go hospital after English class so I have a little free time for about 30 mins.

I will buy coffee in starbucks.

americano -> america no

May I ask for the reason of visiting hospital?

My friend is single but her boyfriend has two sons their ages are 5 and 6 this year.

they met for 4 years.

one -> in the middle of fifties
another -> with 3 kids

I saw the news about him who he is famous singer
he has three sons he is re-married and he has got two sons who is he?

I heard her about her boyfriend she and he has an age gap 12years I said(asked) up or down she said up I couldn't say anything else because I think he is half 100.

varies -> 다양한

differs -> 차이